NEW ACADEMIC INTERNSHIP POLICY APPROVED BY THE INSTITUTE (in effect since March 22nd, 2016)

A large number of undergraduate students go for internship in the summers. SPO office facilitates this by getting companies to interview them for internships. A smaller, but significant, number of students opt for internships at academic institutions, both in and outside the country. Since the last couple of years, a number of such internships in North America have been facilitated by the New York office of the institute. As a policy, the institute would like to promote academic internships more since it increases the chances of students going for PhD thus eventually increasing the pool of possible faculty in the country. There are two issues that need to be addressed though: (1) a number of students spam a large number of faculty asking for internships, and (2) industry internships offers are typically given before the academic internships. In order to address these concerns as well as facilitate the academic internships, the following is being implemented. It applies to all students who use the SPO office for industry or academic internships.

- 1) All students interested in internships will, at the outset, fill up a form stating their preference between industry and academic internships. This is only a preference indication.
- 2) Every student will be permitted to apply for academic as well as industry internships. The academic internships here in are only the ones as described in Rule 3.
- 3) Students interested in academic internships can apply only to the positions offered through our New York office, or through a faculty member of the institute or through SPO.
- 4) Once a student, who had given a preference to academic internship earlier, accepts an academic internship offer, he/she must give up all other offers (academic or industry) and will not be permitted to change the choice. This will enable him/her to accept the academic internship within the scope of Rule 3 and give up the industry internship. If the student has already accepted an academic internship, he/she will not be able to change it for another academic internship. If student has accepted an industry internship, the student as per current rules and which stay in force, he/she will not be able to substitute for another industry internship.
- 5) Academic internships outside the scope of Rule 3 will not be considered for any of these rules. If you have an industry or academic internship (accepted through SPO/Rule 3 scope) and you secure an academic or industry internship on your own outside the scope of rule 3 and accept it, you will be automatically deregistered from placements and will not be allowed to attend placement process at all.
- 6) Spamming faculty for internships is strongly discouraged and if faculty complaints are received, we will take it seriously and penalties will include deregistering from placements. Students are strongly encouraged to bring their direct contacts with overseas and Indian based faculty within the scope of Rule 3 by keeping the New York Office and/or department faculty actively in the loop and formalizing through them.
- 7) Students while applying for academic internships must follow the guidelines laid out in the application material, especially regarding which years are eligible. If the qualifications for eg says only pre-final year students of B. Tech and Integrated, 2nd year students must not spam and/or apply.
